2. Best Practice :-

Title :- Community partnerships

Goal :- Engage with local community through partnership for the infrastructural development and decision making.

Context :- When community members are actively involved in education, they provide additional resources, support, and accountability to the education organization, which improves student performance. The best way for communities to get involved in education is to support and partner with local education organizations such as colleges.

Practice :- The main focus of Shri Shiv Charan Mathur, Government College is to achieve educational objectives with community participation, for which the college is continuously working in this direction. For development, a registered College Development Committee has been constituted in the college since session 2003. It proposes the needs of the college in the development committee meetings, maintains contact with local Bhamasahas, maintains constant contact and association with the alumni council.

Evidence :- Shri Shiv Charan Mathur, Government College, Mandargarh was started in the year 1999 through community participation:- The community of Mandargarh area was motivated for the construction of the college building by Shriman Pradeep Kumar Singh, Chairman of the Building Construction Committee. Financial support was obtained from the people for the construction of the building by adding many eminent persons to the College Building Construction Committee. For the construction of the college building, all the teachers working in the schools of Mandargarh area set an example by donating their one month's salary for the construction of the building. In this series, the traders of Mandargarh area have also donated money for the construction of the building. The villagers of Hoda had unanimously decided to give a total of 100 bighas of pasture land for the construction of the college building. As a result of which, today a beautiful building of the college has been constructed with public cooperation in a vast area of 75 bighas. A garden has been established outside each classroom of the college. The grand entrance gate outside the college has also been constructed by Mrs. Vandana Mathur, President of Shri Shiv Charan Mathur Research and Service Institute and Honorable Member of College Development Committee, in the session 2017-18 as a result of inspiration from Development Committee Secretary Shri Kailash Chandra Daroga, Associate Professor-Political Science.

Formation of College Development Committee:- For the complete development of Shri Shiv Charan Mathur, Government College, the College Development Committee was formed in the session 2003 and registered on 25 September 2003. The written constitution of the Development Committee is present. According to which the College Development Committee is continuously working for the development of the college.
