The department of mathematics was established in 1960. Department has one room with one computer.

Department has c-language programming in B.Sc. Part III practicals. It has few scientific calculators in our department and with the help of these calculators the practical problems of numerical analysis (newtons method, Raphson method, Trapezoidal method, Simpson method, Gauss Quardature formula,Rungta Falsi method etc.)are solved which are in the syllabus of B.Sc. PartII. We have three sanction sections in each class (B.Sc. I, II and III) and two sanction post in the department.

An informal library is setup having approximate 300 books in the department. The books are issued to the students in the beginning of the session and they used to submit the books after their exams. The department organizes in- house interactive sessions with the students once in a month to identify and to solve the personal problems of students.
